UNIT-II

4. Write a critical appreciation of the following :

She dwells with Beauty—Beauty that must die;

And joy, whose hand is ever at his lips.

Bidding adieu; and achieving pleasure nigh

Turning to Poison while the bee-mouth sips :

Ay, in the very temple of Delight.

Veiled melancholy has her sovran shrine,

Though seen of none save him whose sensuous tongue

Can burst Joy's grape against his palate fine;

His soul shall taste the sadness of her might,

And be among her cloudy trophies hung.

5. These things arranged he walked with Tess back and handed her in. The coachman was paid and told where to drive her. Taking next his own bag and umbrella, the sole articles he had brought with him hitherward, he bade her good bye; and they parted there and then.

The fly moved creepingly up a hill and close watched it go with an unpremeditated hope that Tess would look out of the window for one moment, but that she never thought of doing, would not have ventured to do, lying in a half-dead faint inside. Thus, he beheld her recede, and in the anguish of his heart quoted a line from a poet with peculiar amendments of his own.

God is not in his heaven; all is wrong with the world.
